Police Called to Calm U-Halloweeners

Students Go Wild; Hanging, Cross Burning, Raids Held

By GENELL JACKSON

What started as a sedate Halloween observation at Montana State University ended with panty raids, an effigy hanging of President Carl McFarland and Missoula police stationed at sorority houses and patrolling the campus.

Although many students were sent home and others picked up, police reported no official arrests were made.

"There should have been some arrests," one officer stationed on campus commented, "but we were instructed to just break up the mobs as peacefully as possible."

Cross Starts Evening

Kams and Dregs began the evening's festivities by burning a 10-foot cross on the oval as a warning to Bobcats to beware of MSU "ghosts and goblins" this week end. While this was going on some other women decided to raid Craig Hall.

Girls went through the corridors of the men's dormitory and men returned the raid, picking up underclothing en route. All women's residence halls were entered except Turner.

TROUBLE SPOT BRIEFS

From the Wires of United Press

LONDON—The Commander-in-Chief of United States Naval forces in the eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean will move from London to a command ship in the eastern Mediterranean tomorrow.

New York—Adlai Stevenson charged the Eisenhower administration with "appeasement and provocation." Stevenson said those policies have caused a split with Britain and France. He told a New York audience that the GOP policy in the Middle East "has been consistent in one respect only... that it has not told the American people the truth."

LAKE SUCCESS—The United Nations Security Council has called an emergency session of the General Assembly to consider the righting between Egypt and Israel and Anglo-French intervention in the situation. There is no veto in the General Assembly.

UNITED NATIONS—The Secretary General of the United Nations suggested to the Security Council that it dismiss him if it disagrees with his Palestine policies. Dag Hammarskjöld indirectly criticized British and French moves in the Middle East. It was the Secretary-General who gained agreement to a Palestine cease-fire earlier this year.

WALL STREET—The Middle East crisis sent prices on the New York stock exchange crashing 2 billion dollars worth in today's session. The decline was the biggest since word was received of President Eisenhower's intestinal attack.

WASHINGTON—The State Department has banned all American travel to Israel, Egypt, Jordan and Syria, except where it is in the "best interests of the United States." The Department also announced that hundreds of Americans have been evacuated from the four countries, but more than 4,000 others remain.

DETROIT—Vice President Nixon accused Stevenson of trying to "inflame passions at home and abroad" by remarks about the Middle East crisis. Nixon flew from Detroit to New York for a rally Wednesday. His Democratic opponent, Senator Estes Kefauver, said today in Battle Creek, Mich., that the "zig-zagging" GOP foreign policy helped bring about the situation in the Middle East.

WASHINGTON—Suspension of arms shipments to any Middle East country has been suspended by the Canadian Government.

Mid-East Fighting Not to Involve U.S.—Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower promised the nation that the United States will not get involved in the Middle East fighting, in a nation-wide radio and television speech last night.

Mr. Eisenhower said the dedicated purpose of the United States is to "do all in its power to localize the fighting and to end the conflict."

He said he has "no plan to call the Congress in special session" now. But he added he will keep Congressional leaders of both parties in touch with developments in the Middle East crisis.

Mr. Eisenhower emphasized that he was speaking as President of the United States, rather than in his role as a candidate for reelection.

He said, "There have indeed been injustices suffered by all nations involved" in the current fighting. But he said "another instrument of injustice, war" is not the remedy.

The President said that although Britain and France vetoed an American cease-fire proposal in the U.N. Security Council, the U.N. still has other ways of halting the fighting. He said it is his hope that the General Assembly, where there is no veto, can focus world opinion behind the quest for peace.

The President also said he "rejoices" in the current struggle for independence in once-Communist Hungary and Poland. And he made an apparent reference to Russia's offer to discuss withdrawing troops from the satellites. Mr. Eisenhower said, "If the Soviet Union indeed faithfully acts upon its announced intention, the world will witness the greatest forward stride toward justice, trust and understanding among nations in our generation."

Colvin 'Puts Up' In Running For Legislature

Dr. Milton Colvin, assistant professor in sociology, is running for the House of Representatives as an independent together with five Democrats and five Republicans. He is financing his campaign himself.

Dr. Colvin said, "I got tired of criticizing the legislature in my classrooms and I decided to act on the slogan of 'put up or shut up.'" He thinks that of the 94 members of the Legislature one should be an educator.

Between summer and fall quarter he rang some 5000 doorbells, working about 10 hours a day. He heard that the Fuller Brush salesmen consider the hours between 9 p.m. and 11:30 p.m. the best time to talk to housewives. Dr. Colvin acknowledges that fact.

"One can average about 30 people an hour but the trouble comes when somebody starts an hour-long political conversation," he said. He found that it was better to talk of himself as a teacher, because a professor is considered to be an ivory-tower character.

Egypt Severs British, French Relations; Air Raids Continue

LONDON (UP)—Egypt has severed diplomatic relations with Britain and France and is threatening to withdraw from the U. N.

The drastic move follows a night-long British and French bombing assault on Egyptian military bases and airfields in preparation for a full-scale invasion.

Air ministry sources in London said the RAF caught Egyptian planes on the ground in a concentrated effort to knock out the Egyptian Air Force. They said 14 Egyptian planes were destroyed on the ground, including some Russian-built MIG fighters.

The Egyptian Embassy in Paris claimed three waves of British and French bombers attacked Cairo last night. It quoted a Cairo communique as saying that the bombers blasted a mosque and a hospital as well as military targets.

The Embassy said the raids caused the deaths of nine persons. There is no report on this from Cairo, itself, nor from British or French officials.

Pure Military Decision

A French military spokesman said the timing of the operation is, "a purely military decision." He said the air raids were restricted to military objectives. He also denied an Egyptian report that a French fighter plane had been shot down during a raid.

The raids are an obvious prelude to an invasion by the British and French task force now reported hovering off the Egyptian coast. However, there is no indication when the invasion will begin.

The only sign that the fleet was near Egyptian waters was the announcement that a British Cruiser had sunk an Egyptian Frigate in the Gulf of Suez.

French Join Israel

The Egyptian government charges French planes have joined Israel aircraft in the Sinai Desert battle.

A communique issued in Cairo said, "Several French squadrons joined with Israeli aircraft in attacking our land forces in the Sinai Peninsula after our air force succeeded in wiping out more than one-fourth of the Israeli air force."

The charge, if true, could be serious because Britain and France have said they were entering the Suez Canal Zone to contain the fighting between Israel and Egypt. They have said they are not taking sides in the Israeli-Egypt conflict.

An Israeli communique said the desert forces had overwhelmed the Egyptian post guarding the nine-mile entrance to the Gaza Strip from the Sinai Desert.

Unofficial sources in Jerusalem said Israeli units have dug in at the corners of the Sinai Desert triangle and are mopping up Egyptian forces within the triangle. However, they did not indicate how far toward the Suez Canal the triangle extends.

Dear Editor:

This letter regards an article printed in Tuesday's Kaimin concerning the Central Board meeting of Oct. 25.

The information used in the article came from a report I made to Central Board. However, only one sentence was printed and the report lasted 15 minutes.

It is unfortunate that the article was written in such a way as to seemingly aim all the blame for no progress on Marcus Bourke. Bourke did refuse a suggestion for mulch, but later explained to my satisfaction why he refused.

I would like it understood that Bourke has done more to further the progress of the golf course this fall than all other faculty committee members put together.

He took this job to help the students. Besides working on the golf course Bourke has two full time jobs on the campus, alumni secretary and family housing director.

Bourke will need the cooperation of the whole student body if we are to have a golf course.

Sincerely,
John Boyle

The Big Three Split

America is facing her greatest foreign crisis since Korea and she has received one of the biggest, if not the biggest, double-cross in her history.

Britain and France, going against the United States, are taking one of the greatest gambles in the history of either country. Their big hope is that President Nasser of Egypt will back down, yield the Suez Canal and accept deflation of his self-appointed role as leader of the Arab world.

The action of Britain and France has gone to such an extreme that United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld has suggested to the Security Council that it dismiss him if it disagrees with his Palestine policies.

Hammarskjöld aptly put it when he said, "The principles of the United Nations Charter are, by far, greater than the organization in which they are embodied. And, the aims which they are to safeguard are holier than the policies of any single nation or people."

The United States sits in the middle, and the road out does not look promising. No matter which way we go somebody will have their toes stepped on and we may create more hard feelings toward us.

When the United States went before the U.N. Security Council and presented her problem it did not get enthusiastic support which should have been expected from Britain and France. Normally the Western Big Three would be expected to deliver a one-two-three punch before the Council on such a matter.

Now, the Soviet Union has sided with us. In Tuesday's Security Council meeting the USSR offered a watered-down version of the American resolution which branded Israel an aggressor, after the American resolution was vetoed by Britain and France.

Why Russia is siding with the United States is a question that cannot be answered. Some observers believe Russia instigated the Middle East crisis to take the spotlight away from the uprisings behind the Iron Curtain. Others believe it is a deliberate attempt by the Soviet Union to split the Allied Powers.

British Prime Minister Anthony Eden replied to American criticism of his action, saying Britain is free to act in the Middle East without getting United States agreement first. But, if he goes through with the actual invasion as he now plans, he could fail, or what is even worse, a general war could develop.

It is clear that Britain and France are for more forceful action in the Middle East, no matter what the consequence. Only time will tell whether it was worth splitting the Western Big Three.

'Cats, Rocky Mountain Champs, Face Toughest Game Says Storti

The Montana State College Bobcats stashed away the 1956 Rocky Mountain Conference football title and are undefeated in seven games, but coach Storti says "the roughest one of all" lies just ahead in archrival Montana State University.

MSC has the final game "away" on Saturday at Missoula as the Bobcats tangle with MSU's Grizzlies for the mythical state crown.

MSC Season

The Cats opened the season with non-conference wins over South Dakota State and North Dakota U and then rolled over five successive Rocky Mountain Conference foes. That 29-13 victory over Western State last Saturday was the clincher.

This is all preliminary now, to the annual struggle which has seen the 'Cats come hopefully up to the traditional Bobcat-Grizzly game many times—only to watch a Silvertip victory. Over the years MSU has won 40 games, with MSC taking 10 and five ties recorded.

'Cats' Stats

Storti's Bobcats have averaged 370 yards and 32 points per game while holding opponents to 178 yards average and nine points. MSU's record reads one and five,

4 Men Advance In Net Tourney

Ed Chinske, intramural director, said yesterday that four men have advanced into the quarterfinals of the tennis singles tournament. Bruce Cook, Bill Crawford, Tom Lawin and T. Threlkeld have advanced as a result of forfeits.

Threlkeld will play the winner of the Charley-Bruce-Bruce Vollmer match.

The intramural touch football schedule for tonight is: Galloping Geese vs. Theta Chi on Field 1; Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Elrod Hall on Field 2; Alpha Tau Omega vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon on Field 3.

but Storti isn't making any predictions of victory. All too well he remembers the 1954 contest, also at Missoula, when the Bobcats went into the contest against another underrated Grizzly team. The Grizzlies beat the 'Cats 25-21.

Last year it was a 19-0 Grizzly win, so MSC hasn't won since the 13-12 victory in 1947 in Butte.

After last Saturday's victory Storti told his players they'd "eat and sleep Grizzlies" all week long and he's living up to his promise. In view of the way Western completed four passes in four attempts in the last half to wreck the MSC pass defensive mark—and the fine Grizzly passing against Colorado A&M, the 'Cats may see a lot of aerials on Saturday.

Frank Landon, MSC's four year left half, still is a doubtful starter because of the knee injury that kept him out of the WSC contest.

Science Fair Set for April

Plans are being made for the Second Annual Montana Science Fair to be held in the Field House April 5 and 6, 1957, according to Dr. Reuben A. Diettert, professor of botany and director of the fair.

Science fairs are exhibitions of the work of high school students who are interested in science. The fairs are held throughout the nation to encourage and stimulate scientific interest in young people.

"Last year a third of a million boys and girls in over 15,000 high schools exhibited their projects in science fairs," Dr. Diettert said.

The Montana Science Fair is open to all students enrolled in grades nine through 12. There will be two major divisions: senior high school for students in grades ten through 12, and junior high school for students in grade nine.

Senior high school exhibits will be in ten categories. These are: astronomy; atomic energy, electricity, magnetism and light; botany; chemistry; conservation, including wildlife and forestry; geology; mathematics; medicine and physiology; mechanics, heat and sound; and zoology, including anthropology.

First, second, and third place medals will be awarded in each of the ten categories. A grand prize will be given to the best exhibit by a boy and the best by a girl.

The two grand prize winners will be sent to the 8th National Science Fair at Los Angeles, May 9-11. Their all-expense-paid trip will culminate in having their work exhibited before men prominent on the national science scene.

Snows Delay Rink Opening

Recent snows and rain have halted construction at the Glacier Rink, according to Earl Martell, director of student activities, facilities.

Water leakage through the unfinished roof halted further building up of ice for the scheduled opening the first of this week, Martell said.

However, Martell stated the rink may be in use next week if weather permits construction and maintenance crews to continue work.

Les Hudson has been appointed student manager of the rink. Skating rates will be slightly higher this year but the skating sessions will be longer. On weeknights there will be single skating sessions starting at 7 as compared to the double sessions last year, Martell said.

Drama Production Is Taking Shape

With practices six nights a week the Montana Masquers are progressing rapidly with their production of "The Skin of Our Teeth," said Bo Brown, drama director.

Tuesday night group movements were practised under the direction of Marjorie Cooper, ballet instructor. The cast practised the movements for "the annual convention for the order of mammals" which takes place in Atlantic City during the second act.

Also appearing in the second act will be a Miss America contest on the "Boardwalk." It is in this act that Mr. Antrobus is elected president of the world and the "great flood" brings an end to the world.

Brown said that members of the cast will be rehearsing without the aid of their scripts by the end of this week. Orders for costumes were sent this morning and the sets for act one have been built.

Board of Education Trims Appropriation

BILLINGS (AP)—The State Board of Education has trimmed the 1957-59 biennial appropriation for the six university units by $935,000 because enrollment failed to reach expectations.

The Board now plans to ask the 35th Legislature to appropriate some 26 million dollars for instructional costs at the units and the agricultural experiment station and extension service. Public Instruction Superintendent Mary M. Condon said an additional half-million dollars will be asked for building repairs and expansion at the schools.

Montana State University was authorized to accept the deposit of papers, manuscripts and related property of the late Homer Cummings.

Women's Press Party Set for Tonight

The annual Women of the Press party will be sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism honorary, tonight at 7:30 in the Journalism school, according to Carole Lee, president.

The party is for all women journalism students, the faculty, and alumni. A report on the Theta Sigma Phi convention will also be given.
